THE GREAT CRISIS IN FRANCE

GREVY'S MESSAGE NOT READY AND NOTHING SETTLED ABOUT A NEW MINISTRY.

chody Started a Rumor That the President Might Back Out After All-Germany is Looking for the Men Who Forged Prince Bismarck's Name to the Communi-

SEPECIAL CABLE TO THE WORLD. PARIS, Nov. 25 .- Many persons went to the Chamber of Deputies this afternoon under the fixed impression that the message from M. Grevy announcing his resignation would be read to Parliament. But the first news which reached us on entering the Salle des Pas Perdus, which was to-day as crowded and animated as ever, was that the Presiidential message was not ready, that nothing was yet settled with respect to the Ministry and that nothing of a definite character would probably be known before to-morrow at the earliest. Then the strange rumor ran through the hall that M. Grevy might after all back out and make one more desperate attempt to remain at the Elysee. Several of the President's friends had gone about contradicting M. Henry Maret's account of the famous interview of yesterday and one of them actually declared that M. Grevy had formally authorized him to say that the Radical Deputy had misunderstood him and that he had not yet arrived at any positive decision. You may well imagine the sensation which these denials produced and the comments to which they gave rise. There was a general roar at the bare notion that the President might once more have changed his mind. He has vacillated very often of late. But this was regarded as really too strong, and while some believed that there might be some foundation for the story others, and they were in the majority, expressed the opinion that after what had occurred M. Grevy would never have the face to retract. It had been reported insidiously that M. Maret had proceeded to the Elysee on his own initiative; but this afternoon he merly the President's Secretary, had called on him and expressly invited him to confer with M. Grevy. Soon, however, the effect produced by the assertions of M. Grevy's friends was removed, people coming round to the opinion that this was only a false alarm, and that the President's resignation could be regarded in the light of an accomplished fact. M. Ribot had been to the Elysee and had been asked by M. Grevy if in the event of his deciding on the formation of a new Cabinet he would assist him. "Certainly," M. Ribot replied on the understanding that the message announcing the President's resignation should be promptly forthcoming. But M. Ribot strongly advised him to consult M. Rouvier and his colleagues, and to sound them as to whether they had not best remain in office until the Congress for the election of the new President had assembled at Versailles. This the President promised to do.

A CAUSE CELEBRE IN PROSPECT.

The Persons who Forged Prince Bis Name to be Presecuted.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE WORLD.] Berlin, Nov. 25 .- The chief topic of conversation is the revelation of the Cologne Gazette concerning the forged letter shown to the Czar. In club and saloon everybody It is generally believed that we have a "cause pelebre" in prospect. The most singular part of the whole affair is the reticence of official circles on the subject, though there is no doubt as to the genuineness of the revelation. A few days hence more light may be thrown on the matter. When the Czar was in Berlin he told Prince Bismarck frankly what he had heard. Whereupon the Chancellor replied: "Your Majesty, if anybody has laid such a note before you, as coming from me, you have been deceived. I have never written anything like it, nor has any Ambassador of ours ever reported anything

It is believed that since the Czar left Berlin the originals have been shown to Prince Bismarck. Hence the passage threatening legal proceedings. But who are the culprits? Some say that if Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria and his mother are implicated they must have been themselves merely dupes of others. Perhaps with more justice, some attribute the whole thing to Panslavistic machinations, whilst others again imagine that this matter has been pushed into the foreground in order to detract attention from elsewhere. At any rate the guilty persons, whoever they are, will be thoroughly unmasked before long.

Two Men and a Horse Killed.

SEPECIAL TO THE WORLD. NEWYON, Nov. 25. - Charles and Patrick Hannon, of Cochituate, were killed instantly last night while trying to cross the track of the Boston and Albany Youd here, by the 6, 15 train for Worcester, with two companions. Peter Burkehart's Will Dissolved.

VINCENNES, Nov. 25. -Peter Burkehart, an' old farmer, of Pike County, worth $25,000, left a will disinheriting half of his sons. Burkehart murdered his wife in July in a fit of frenzy and then killed himself. The dissphointed heirs contested the will and secured a verdict to-day in the Pike County Circuit Court dissolving the testament.

Postmusters After More Money.

SEPECIAL TO THE WORLD, 1 Pirrssung, Nov. 25. - The third and fourth class Postmasters of the Twenty-fourth Congressional District are holding a convention to-day to secure BUCKET-SHOPS WIDE OPEN.

All of Them Except One Doing a Big Bush ness Downtown To-day.

The bucket-shops are in full blast to-day with the exception of Todd's Exchange, at 50 New street. The Standard Stock Co., at 38 New street, which is probably the largest bucket-shop in the city, was crowded, and although business did not seem very active, it was transacted without disguise and apparently without any dread of the police. The managers of this claim that the law cannot reach them; that they do business as the Stock Exchange does, to the extent that customers beginning an actual delivery of stocks can be accommodated and a provision to that effect is in the printed contracts they make with customers.

The brothers Hartt, comprising the firm of Hartt & Co., who were arrested on Wednes-day and released on bail, are doing business to day and released on ball, are doing business to day at the same place, 42 Broadway. R. H. Hammond & Co., a bucket-shop, which gained unenviable notoriety about a year ago, is in full blast at 40 Broadway. R. H. Hammond was, it will be remembered, arrested in connection with a transaction in New England stock. He finally compromised the case with the complainant.

POWDERLY TIRED AND DISGUSTED.

General Worthy Foreman Griffiths Says the Head of the Knights will Retire.

[SPECIAL TO THE WORLD.] CHICAGO, Nov. 25 .- General Worthy Fore man Richard Griffiths, of the Knights of Labor, when asked this morning regarding Powderly's declaration that he will decline reelection at Indianapolis next November, said he had reason to believe that such was the Master Workman's resolve when at Minne-

Griffiths would succeed Powderly if the latter left his post for any reason before the end of his term.
Regarding the succession by election he declined to speak other than to say that the right man would appear, though no one could worthily fill Powderly's place. The change must hurt the order, but he was sure it would take place, as Powderly was broken down and disgusted and only remained over the last convention to down the Chicago and New York radicals.

"BLINKY" MORGAN IN COLUMBUS JAIL. To Be Hanged on March 16 for the Murder of Detective Hulligan.

tence to hang on March 16 next, was brought here yesterday evening and placed in the department for the condemned. His removal was kept secret because it was feared an attempt to rescue him would be made. Morgan wore a smile, but it was forced. He was elegantly dressed and looked like a clergyman.

To the Warden, who said carelessly, "Well, you have come to stay with us a while," he said: "Yes, if you insist on it," and laughed. Morgan is the only occupant of the condemned department, but murderer Roth, of Wooster, who is under sentence to hang the same day, will soon arrive. Morgan is regarded as the most desperate and accomplished criminal ever held inside the Ohio State Prison.

NEW BRUNSWICK'S TRAIL OF BLOOD. Was Grunewald's Body Thrown Over a Cliff to Concent Murder?

[SPECIAL TO THE WORLD.] NEW BRUNSWICE, N. J., Nov. 25 .- At the Coroner's inquiry to-night concerning the mysterious death of Leonard Grunewald, George Sabone will testify that on the morning of the finding of Grunewald's body he discovered a trail of blood on Burnet street, leading to the cliff over which it is believed Grunewald was thrown. Large spots of blood were also found on the sidewalks east of Grover's alley, where Grunewald's hat was

HER FATHER GOT A PISTOL.

A BARKEEPER ENGAGES HIM IN A ROUGH-AND-TUMBLE FIGHT.

GILMORE BADLY USED

The Manager of Niblo's Garden Gets an Ugly Gush on his Forehead and Loses Some of His Hair in a Scrimmage in the Barroom of the Metropelitan Hotel-The Barkeeper Arrested on Two Charges.

Edward G. Gilmore, the popular manager of Niblo's Garden, lounged behind the stage during the first two acts of Jefferson's "Rip Van Winkle" last evening. He had judiciously placed a snug little sum on the Yale football team, and the news of the victory had put him in a good humor.

He gathered two or three of his friends together during the intermission between the second and third acts and strolled into the bar of the Metropolitan Hotel.

According to reliable persons very little wine was drunk by Mr. Gilmore or his friends, but in the course of the next half hour a sanguinary encounter took place between the manager and John J. Ryan, an assistant in the wine room.

Mr. Gilmore came out of the fight with a gash across his forehead which will mark him for life, It was caused by his being thrown violently, face forward, against the edge of the marble-topped bar. He had many scratches and bruises on his face and hands, and some of his gray hair was torn out by the roots. The lobe of his left ear was almost bitten through by Ryan and he had also been badly bitten on the right hand.

The utmost efforts of the bystanders could not separate the men until the fight had

When Policeman Hunter, of the Mulberry street station, entered the barroom, being attracted by the shouts of the combatattracted by the shouts of the combat-ante and bystanders, he found the two men struggling flercely. Byan had one hand on the manager's throat and with the other he was trying to tear out more of Mr. Gilmore's hair. Hunter struck Ryan with his club and dragged him off to the station-house, Mr Gilmore charging him with an unprovoked

Two of the theatre attendants bathed Mr.

Two of the theatre attendants bathed Mr. Gilmore's face and bound his silk handker-chief over his forehead. Then Deputy Sheriff John Bermingham, of 121 Crosby street, one of the friends who accompanied him into the bar, put the manager into a cab and drove to the house of Dr. H. J. Quackenboss, 19 West Eighteenth street. His wounds were properly dressed, and he was then taken to his rooms at the Hotel Brunswick and put to bed.

It is very hard to get a full and intelligent account of how the trouble arose. Mr. Gilman and his friends are desirous of keeping the matter as quiet as possible, and the bartenders and two hackmen who sympathize with Ryan seem to be afraid to speak out.

When a Wonld reporter called at the Brunswick this morning and was admitted to Mr. Gilmore's room, Dr. Quackenboss was dressing his patient's wounds. Mr. Gilmore in a weak and feeble voice said that he would prefer not to talk just at present, and referred the reporter to Deputy Sheriff Bermingham.

"I want to make only one remark to the press," said he, "and that is that I never had anything to do with this man Byan until last evening, and did not even know his name until after this unfortunate affair."

Mr. Bermingham was seen in Gibson's saddlery store, but was very reluctant to give any information. "Mr. Gilmore was chat-

"Mr. Gilmore was chatting very good-naturedly with myself and two other gentlemen named Gray and Sheridan," said he, "when this man Ryan came up to the bar and spoke to the cashier. As he turned to leave he made an offensive remark to Mr. Gilmore, and before I knew what had happened the two men were struggling all over and before I knew what had hap-pened the two men were struggling all over the room. I threw myself between them, but could not separate them. Ryan struck first, I believe, and then Mr. Gilmore's blood first. I believe, and then Mr. Gilmore's blood was up. He wanted to hit it yan as badly as Ryan wanted to hit him. Byan was drunk and wanted to pick a quarrel. That was the whole cause of it. I will not say what was the offensive remark which he made at first, but, I assure you, it was entirely uncalled for by any conduct on Mr. Gilmore's part. Mr. Gilmore did not know Ryan until afterwards, for his first remark after Ryan was dragged off by the policeman was: 'Who is this man, anyhow? I don't know him. What is his name?'

Ryan is a powerfully built man, thirty-two years old. He is unmarried, and he lives at 305 East Twenty-fifth street. He did not say a word when at the bar, but afterwards spoke to a Wonlo reporter as follows: "Mr. Gilmore struck me first, and if the men who saw the affair were not such cowards they would tell the truth in my favor. A Forty-five-Year-Old Tailor Accused of Kidnapping His Old Friend's Danghter.

Peter Quinn, a tailor, employed in St. Joseph's Institute, Westchester County, was taken to Jefferson Market Police Court this morning. It is supposed that he is the abductor of Rosana Campbell, a girl fifteen years old, who has been missing from her since Oct. 30.

The girl lived with her father, James Campbell, a tailor, at No. 802 Seventh avenue. The night upon which she was last seen she left her home with her cousin, Mamie Sullivan, of 112 Place street, Greenpoint. Both girls walked to Thirty-fourth street and Sixth avenue. Mamie remembers to have seen Quinn, who is a man forty-five years of age, in that neighborhood. She knew Quinn, as he had been a member of the family for lifteen years.

Mamie left Rosana to go to ber home in Greenpoint. She crossed the ferry alone and, on reaching the other side, was astonished to see Rosanna and Quinn getting into a Calvary Cemetery car together. That was the last seen of the girl. Last night Quinn called at the house of Mr. Campbell, and told the father that he did not know anything about where her daughter was. Campbell had him arrested on a charge of kidnapping. The accused told the policeman that he had a letter from the girl to her father telling him that she was all

The father said that Quinn was at one time a frequent visitor at the house and paid particular attention to Rosana. On July 4, 1886, she was left in the house alone. Quinn called and after he left he did not call again for three weeks. Mr. Campbell was told by Mrs. Thompson, a colored servant in the house, that there was something wrong going on. After this the father armed himself with a pistol and vowed that he would be revenged. When Quinn returned to the house he was ordered to leave if he valued his life.

To Justice Duffy, Quinn said he knew nothing about the whereabouts of the girl. He was remanded:

MARY LYNN STILL MISSING.

Her Long Absence from Home a Painful Mystery to All Her Friends.

Nothing has yet been heard of Miss Mary fane Lynn, who walked out of her sister's house, 514 West Twenty-first street, last Tuesday evening and disappeared as mysteriously as if the sidewalk had swallowed her.

Miss Lynn was twenty-four years of age, with blue eyes and light brown hair. She was of medium size, and quite good looking.

When she left home on the afternoon of the day on which she disappeared she had on a dark cheviot dress, with light colored waist, trimmed with blue braid, and a black jacket. Her hat was of felt, trimmed with blue and white ribbons.

Mrs. Kennedy, the sister of Miss Lynn, from whose house she so unaccountably disappeared, told a Wonlo reporter this morning that every effort was being made to find the missing girl. No reason could be given for her disappearance, as she was a young woman of blameless character and religious way of life. Every one of her friends and the people in the store where she was employed speak very highly of her. Mrs. Kennedy did not think that Miss Lynn had wandered away while suffering from mental sherration, as she was bright and cheerful and of sound mind. When the girl left her sister's house at 7.50 r. m. on Tuesday she said that she was going to a singing class. Mrs. Kennedy fears that she has met with foul play.

RIOTOUS HOUNDS ON STATEN ISLAND.

Destruction Wrought by Thankagiving Ex cursionists from Brooklyn.

A target company called "The Hounds." and hailing from the Eighteenth Ward of Brooklyn, visited Silver Lake Park at Tompkinsville, S. I., yesterday, and aftershooting, sat down to dinner. When the beer began pickles, dishes, cups and saucers were thrown around promiscuously.

Looking-glasses and doors were broken and general riot seemed imminent. The pro-rictor and his assistants were unable to quell the disturbance.

The police were notified and Inspector Cobb, with six patrolmen, appeared on the ground. "The Hounds," numbering about one hundred, were ordered from the park and under police secort were conducted to the ferry at St. George. No arrests were made.

Comptroller Loew is investigating into the normous extra bill of the contractors, and is determined that the city shall not be mulcted. The Comptroller is no longer member of the Aqueduct Commission. The "ring" had the Mayor and Comptroller legislated out of office. Commissioner of Public Works Newton is still a member of the Commissioners and is acting with Comptroller Loew in looking after the city's interest. Comptroller Loew said to-day to a WonLD reporter :

"I am busy investigating into the conractors' bill for extra work. It is no small bill, as the amount reaches into millions. You may rest assured, however, that I will not sign a warrant to pay the contractors a dollar unless I am convinced that they have the law on their side and have honestly earned the money they are claiming. The big bill was a great

Gen. Newton said: "The bill of the contractors for extra work is now under investi-gation. A sub-committee, of which I am a member, has the investigation in charge. Comptroller Loew, as the financial officer of the municipality, is also investigating the

It is charged that the contractors have included in their bills hundreds of thousands of yards of earth which were disrupted by blasts in tunnelling. The contractors, it is said, are endeavoring to prove that they made excavations with tools that were really the work of powder. Again it is charged that the contractors would lose a vast sum of money on their contracts if it were not for their bills for "extras."

There is some plausibility in this reasoning when their bills for "extras." foot up $2,000,000 or $3,000,000. Comptroller Leow and Gen. Newton say that the investigating committee will meet next Tuesday.

IT DEPRESSED HIS SPIRITS. Manufacturer of Goods for Swindling Purposes Gets a Lesson in Court.

William Suydam, of 65 Nassau street, who who has gained some notoriety of late through his advertisements and circular representing that he manufactured and sold 'crocked" goods for the use of sporting men whereby innocent persons might be victimized, called at the Tombs Police Court this morning. He was accompanied by Capt. William McLoughlin, of the Old slip police station, who said to Justice Kilbreth that Suydam had called several times at the station-house and urged him to arrest one of Suydam's employees who, it was alleged, had gone off with the proceeds of the sale of a quantity of his swindling implements, amounting to $100, which had been turned over to him by express companies in "C. O. D." envelopes. Suydam then mounted the stand in front of the Justice's desk, and repeated the story told the Captain, and asked for a warrant for the arrest of the alleged dishonest employee.

"Are you the man who advertises the sale of implements made for the swindling of people?" asked the Court.

"Yes, sir, blandly replied Suydam.

"And you admit that you manufacture and advertise for sale goods made expressly for this morning. He was accompanied by Capt.

MR. MORGAN PERPLEXED. Despite the Arrest of Dorsey He Still Adver tises for His Diamonds.

Although the police have arrested William H. Dorsey on the charge of stealing $6,000 worth of diamonds from the house of Mr. Matthew Morgan, 248 Lexington avenue, and in spite of the fact that Dorsey at first confessed to writing a letter to Mr. Morgan relating to the diamonds, yet

Morgan relating to the diamonds, yet Mr. Morgan, up to 11.80 o'clock this morning, had heard absolutely nothing from the police in regard to the arrest or the recovery of the property. He is, therefore, still advertising an offer of $1,000 for the recovery f his diamonds.

In response to the inquiry of a World reporter, Mr. Morgan, although very busy, found time to make the following statement: "Well, the newspapers really know more about the affair than I do. I stayed at home all day yesterday, and last night I 'left on' the night bell but not a word have I heard from the police, I told the Inspector that I was ready and waiting to be called at any moment but I haven't heard a word from him. I renewed the reward Wednesday for two days, and if I don't hear from it to-day I shall again renew it to-morrow."

Mr. Morgan after expressing his regret that he could give no further information, again said that he knew absolutely nothing concerning the arrest made or the clues of the police beyond what he had read in the pa-

SAVED FROM THE SCHOLTEN.

More Missing Passengers Accounted for by the Steamship's Agents. At the office of the Netherlands-American Steamship Company a cablegram was received this morning, by Agent Van den Toon, correcting the list of passengers of the wrecked steamship W. D. Scholten, and saying that the following of that number have been saved: Henry Kenyon, Gustav Bromonsky, Hermann Huseler, Gustav Will, Giuseppe de Bertolini, Peter Jemehowski, Max Becker, Janos Pechemje, Janos Takase, Johann Gund, Andreas Altka, Hermann Johann Gund, Andreas Altka, Hermann Weids.

It is also stated that the W. A. Scholten will be blown up, as the vessel as she now is impedes navigation and as there is little chance of raising her. The mails have been recovered. It is probable that the Scholten's passengers will be brought to this city on the steamer P. Caland, of the same line, which leaves Rotterdam to-day.

The father and the brother of Henry Kenyon called at the steamer he the brother of morning and inquired when the Leardam would arrive, as they expected Henry on that ship. They were told that Henry was one of the Scholten's passengers, and word had just been received that he was among the saved.

Version Different from Mr. De Groff's-Very Serious Charges Made by Both Men Jersey City has a sensation to talk over today, the result of the arrest of Justice Henry Crossman this morning on a charge of assault and battery made by Jesse De Groff, a well-known Newark avenue merchant, The arrest is the outcome of a scandal conceruing three of the most highly connected families on Jersey City Heights, and the result will probably be two divorce suits, one of which has already been commenced. Jesse De Groff in his complaint against Justice Crossman says that he called on the latter at his home on Court House place, Wednesday night to follow his wife, who was at the house, and to accuse the Justice of

Wednesday night to follow his wife, who was at the house, and to accuse the Justice of undue intimacy with her during her frequent visits at his home. He says that Crossman followed him to the street and struck him repeatedly in the face with some sharp instrument. He procured a warrant from Justice Aldridge last night.

Justice Aldridge last night.

Justice Crossman, when arrested, declared that Mrs. De Groff's visits were professional, as she was preparing to prosecute her husband for alleged cruel treatment. He then stated that Do Groff had been unduly intimate with Mrs. Carrie E. Wills, who is now suing for a divorce from her husband, Henry E. Wills, a prominent young lawyer, before Chancellor McGill. Justice Crossman says that he can produce five witnesses who saw the couple together at a Union Hill resort on Sunday, Aug. 14.

The Justice's version of the whole scandalous complication is that Mrs. Wills's suit for freedom is brought about by her desire to join De Groff, and that the latter's alleged cruel treatment of his wife has been designed as a provocation for divorce. Mrs. De Groff had been disposed to realize her husband's ideas by a suit, and had been in consultation with him for some time preparing for such a step.

De Groff's accusation of criminal intimacy, the justice says, is utterly false. He states that the course De Groff has taken has decided in his mind his own course—that of exposing the whole of the scandal which he promised to make more spley in the near future.

Mrs. De Groff's suit is now a certainty,

Inture.

Mrs. De Groff's suit is now a certainty, and with both this and the Well's suit in progress at once Jersey City's bump of gossip is likely to be considerably enlarged.

It is said that Lawyer Wells has found plenty of news in Justice Crossman's story and that he will oppose his wife's suit with consequent energy.
